DURHAM COUNTY
LIBRARY

JAN 2006

DURHAM, NC

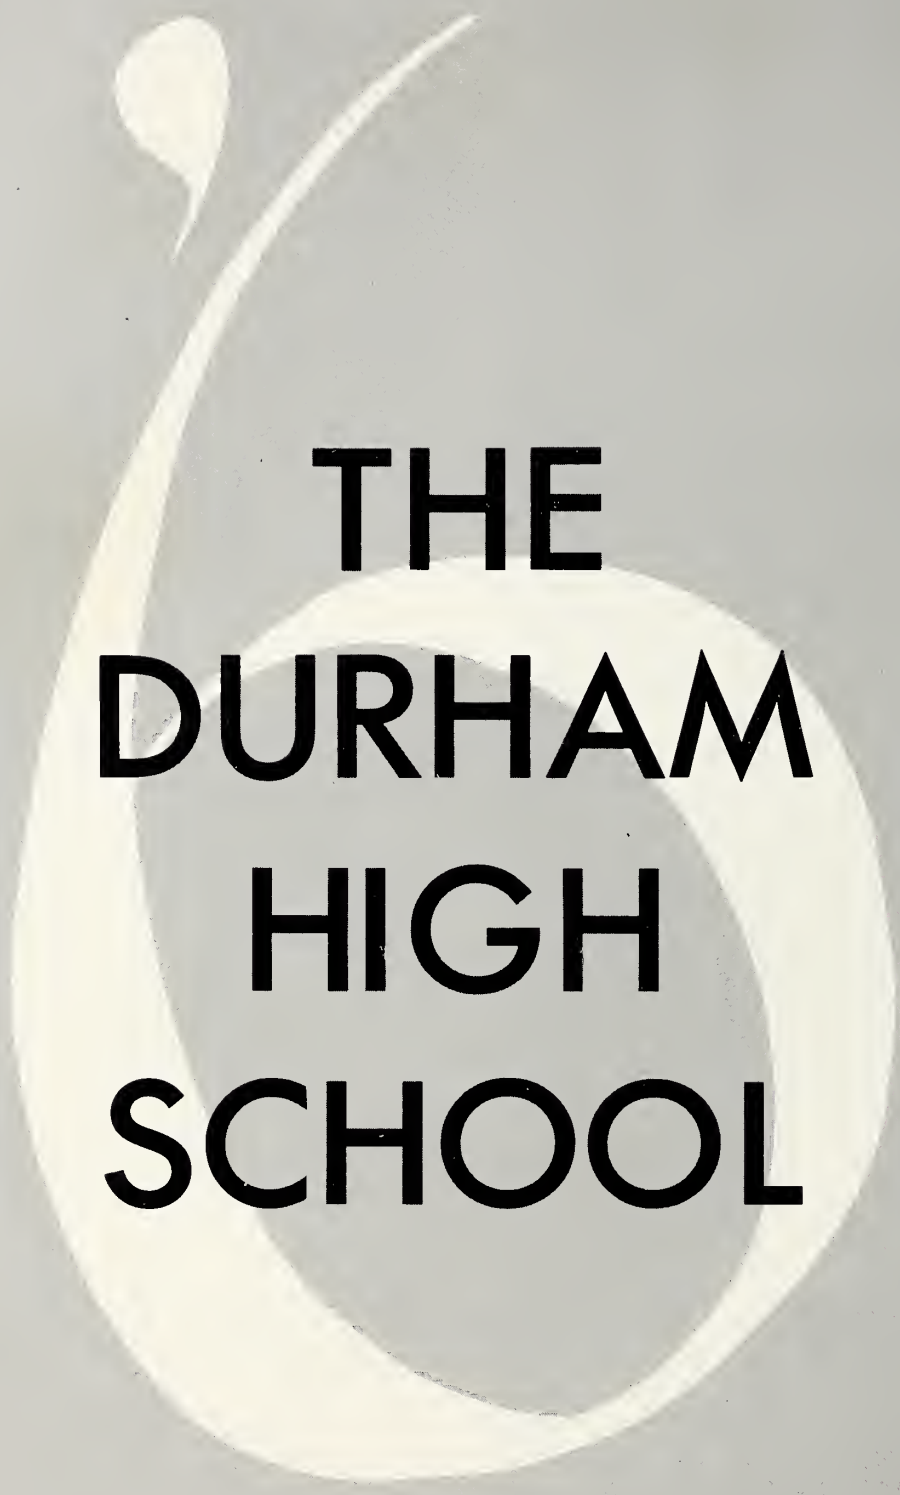

During the five years that he has been at Durham High, the Wind Ensemble has repeatedly carried a rating of "Superior," the band department has gained a reputation of excellence all over this state, and Durham High has an Alma Mater. For his tireless dedication to the school, his leadership in all band activities, and his wonderful sense of humor, we proudly dedicate the 1965 Messenger to Mr. Joseph D. Secrest.

DEDICATION

A stylized graphic of a leaf and stem, rendered in a light cream color, is positioned on the left side of the page. The stem curves upwards and then loops back down, framing the text. The leaf is at the top of the stem.

THE
DURHAM

MESSENGER

Friends . . . homework . . . teachers . . . grades — all of these make up that process of learning which is the purpose of our high school years. What we have learned during our years at Durham High determines what we will be as adults. Most of the knowledge from books will be forgotten, but we shall never forget the people with whom we have come in contact and what we have learned from them — be they teachers or friends. And most of all, we shall always remember what we have learned about ourselves. It is the purpose of the 1965 Messenger to preserve these memories, and to remind us of our high school years.

Trudie Gardner, editor-in-chief.

CLASS OF '65

THE CLASS HISTORY

Class of '65

As the day approaches when we don our caps and gowns, we Seniors, the Class of '65, look back on our last year at DHS with mixed feelings. We look through expectant and optimistic eyes to the future as the fruit of our high school years. But we also linger on the memories of events and accomplishments that have become part of the past.

The first big event of the year, which we will remember with pride, is the Budget Drive. Although we did not win the prize by being first to reach our goal, we kept giving until we had given well over 100 per cent.

Next come the Fall Festival, our Homecoming week. The Fall Festival sponsored by the Class of '65, was the most spirited Festival ever held at Durham High. Beginning with Senior Day, the spirit grew higher each succeeding day as we chosed, caught, and finally cooked the Blockbirds of Rocky Mount. During our "bonquet" Thursday night, a huge Blockbird was burned in a bonfire. The Homecoming Parade on Friday afternoon with its band, cheerleaders and lovely girls on convertibles, was a very colorful affair. During half-time of the game, one of our Senior representatives, Caroline Newsum, was crowned Homecoming Queen.

In the State finals playoff our senior boys on the football team really lived up to their superiority. Thank you for advancing so far! The basketball team also deserves a thank you for its outstanding season.

Not only during Fall Festival week, but also during the entire year, the school spirit made our senior year a memorable one. One of the main factors contributing to this was the efforts of our dedicated seniors on the Student Council. They come to their jobs with a fresh outlook and made the year 1964-65 lively and exciting.

Few of us will soon forget our last concentrated effort as a class—the Senior Play. According to our lively spirits, we presented a comedy, "The Teahouse of the August Moon." The six weeks of preparation were hectic indeed, with set-building, rehearsals, bills to pay, tickets, more rehearsals, more bills, costumes, make-up, more rehearsals, and the last minute rush of course. But each of us will readily agree that the result was worth every bit of those frantic weeks.

Another memory we have is of the Junior-Senior Prom presented in our honor by the Juniors. (Of course, we will not say that it was as good as the one we have for the Seniors the year before.) It was a lovely dance but it clearly reminded us of the nearing end of our high school years.

These are some of the things we remember as we await our graduation from DHS. For these things and for the other memories of our Senior year, we would like to thank our Senior class officers and our advisors, Mrs. Penny and Mrs. Ridenhour, for their help and guidance.

CLASS OF 1966

The class officers Bobby Tyndall, President; Lee Patterson, Vice-President; Kathy Davenport, Secretary; and Gina Tyor, Treasurer; with the aid of the class advisors Miss Lunsford and Mrs. Alexander, steered the Junior Class into an unequalled record during this past year.

The Class led Durham High School to a record intake during the week of the Budget Drive. Not to be accused of resting upon financial laurels alone, the Class then proceeded to make $400 on the sale of football togs.

Homecoming was a joyous occasion for the juniors with our lovely representative Jonet Jones, who represented us well.

Furlough for Four, which received a gross intake of $1,267.00, was an example of the hard effort produced by the members of the class. As a result of these ventures the Junior Class emerged from the old year with long-awaited financial security. Along with Christmas vocotion come the Junior's status symbol—their class rings. It was apparent to all as they "casually" glanced at and displayed their rings.

In the spring, the thoughts of most of DHS turned to love—and the Jr.-Sr.! This year's Jr.-Sr. was a wonderful dream of perfume and love. The fabulous Monzos furnished the music and provided a really sensational time.

The Class did not, however, restrict its success to the pages of the account book. The Class contributed greatly to all phases of scholastic and athletic competition at DHS. The reason for this success is the constructive differences of opinion that are so visible in the Class. We, the officers, are tremendously proud of our Class's record of achievement. We cannot, however, assume the credit for this record; the credit lies with the unprecedented and unequalled collection of individual personalities that make up the Class of 1966.

IN MEMORIAM: CHERYL DEBORAH WALL

April 14, 1948 — February 21, 1965

Sophomore Class History

We finally made it! At long last our first year at Durham High has come to a close, and no longer will we answer to our famous title, "sophomore!" We look back with wonderful memories at this year in which we surely left our mark in D. H. S.

We remember Orientation Week when we were welcomed into the assembly with hisses of "ssssaphamare." After being cheerfully guided by our upper classmen to the nearest "elevator", finally locating our various classes, which were scattered all about the campus, and solving the mystery of split lunch, we at last got into the swing of things. In the early part of the year, we elected class officers. They were: David Rigsbee, president, Buddy Daniel, vice-president, Jane Hackney, secretary, and Wilma Hall, treasurer. We gave our share of greenbacks and helped D.H.S. go over the top in the Budget Drive. Who could forget how David Rigsbee led the sophomore class to victory as his versatile nose pushed the winning peanut across the gym floor to upset senior class president, Canway Harris? We remember the excitement of Homecoming Week—the parades, the Rejuvenation, the game, the homecoming court with the sophomore representative, Wilma Hall, and the homecoming dance.

Sophomores were contributing factors in all phases of school life. We even had sophs on the varsity football and basketball teams. There was hardly any function in the school which was without one of our number. We ran smoothly under the guidance of our advisors, Mrs. Nable and Mrs. Buehler, who helped us greatly in the organization of our class project, the sophomore dance.

We shall never forget our wonderful first year of high school, and we look on with great anticipation at the two years ahead of us, when we may yell out to our peer under-classmen, "ssssaphamare!"

FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENTS

Bonjour Durham High!

What a year! A year I'll never forget. The dream of the European teenager—"to spend a year in America". That's it and it sure hasn't deceived my excitement.

"J'entre dans la salle de classe. Je regarde autour de moi. Je vois." What do I see? So many, many new faces jumping on the opportunity of trying their French! That's fun.

Everyone has been so friendly to help me out of the bad notion of being a senior more lost than a sophomore can be on the first days of school!

"Please say something in French!" What can I say but "merci" to everybody and especially to my family, friends, teachers, to the Student Council, to the school and its spirit. MERCI!

School spirit, Student Council, homecoming, football games—these are a few of the many things which, put together, make a year I will never forget.

And since a lot of my time was spent in Durham High I must be especially thankful to you, the students and teachers who had a great share in making this year such an experience. The friendly smiles and the willingness to help me has meant more than anything else. All the time, during the first weeks, whenever I felt confused or forgotten in the middle of the hall, there was always somebody to help me find the right classroom and pick up my books when I dropped them.

When I go back to Denmark, I will bring with me a wonderful impression of the American people and their friendliness. How can I thank you for this? Only my sincere thank you which seems so small compared to this. Thank you for the chance I got to see an American high school as a student of it. Thank you for the great time I have had. Finally the greatest thank you of all for the things I have learned about another country and its people through you.

ICT

The Industrial Cooperative Training Program (ICT) is a cooperative effort by the school, business and industry to provide on-the-job training for high school juniors and seniors in occupational areas of their choice. It holds energetic young people in school because it gives them opportunity to learn and earn while completing their high school education. It improves the quality of school work for the average participant because it increases students' understanding of the particular reasons for completing high school education while obtaining vocational training. It encourages young people to keep up their school work and graduate if they want to remain in the program.

THE CREED

I BELIEVE IN THE DIGNITY OF WORK.

I hold that mankind has advanced to his present culture through the intelligent use of his hands and mind. I shall maintain a feeling of humbleness for the cumulative knowledge and manipulative art that I receive from craftsmen. I shall conduct myself with dignity in the work that I do.

I BELIEVE IN THE AMERICAN WAY OF LIFE.

I know our culture of today is the result of freedom of action and opportunities won by our American forefathers, and I will uphold their ideals.

I BELIEVE IN EDUCATION.

I shall endeavor to make the best use of the knowledge and skills that I learn in school in order that I may become a better workman in my chosen occupation. I will continue my learning both in and out of school to keep informed in my occupation.

I BELIEVE IN FAIR PLAY.

I shall always conduct myself in the manner of the best tradesmen in my occupation, and treat those with whom I work as I would like to be treated.

I BELIEVE SATISFACTION IS CREATED BY GOOD WORK.

What could better describe the 1964-65 Hi-Rocket than a few candid opinions from the students around DHS.

Louise Jennings: "Oh, is there any other paper in the world?!?"

Linda Aiken: "Hm-a journalistic masterpiece!!"

Sam Freeman: "Every issue surpasses the last, it will be an example for future staffs to review."

Emmaly Ivey: "Truly an indescribably superior publication."

Charlene Honeycutt: "Something to remember, n'est-ce pas!"

Thom Mount: "One of the most outstanding publications I've ever had the pleasure of reading."

Pat Wilson: "Undoubtedly the most fantastic piece of journalism ever published anywhere. No paper could ever be better."

Alyce Ray: "The epitome of professional journalistic composition, as a matter of fact, the rumor that the Hi-Rocket staff will take over publication of the New York Times is 100% correct."

Gwen Horton: "A paper which is always improving and keeping the interest of its readers above all."

George Taylor: "This splendiferous publication owes much of its glorious excellence to the devoted labor of the staff."

Ellen Vann: "The Greatest!!!"

The 1965 Messenger Staff will have a prominent position in the annals of Durham High. It was the year of a new-awakening, and eccentric Renaissance, not in the religion, exploration, or literature of England, Seniors, but in the printing of a "divoon" year-book. Members of the staff wielded a steady influx of new ideas into the book.

The working conditions were excellent—the humidity was high as W. K. steeped his tea after running the H₂O for forty-five minutes in the "tacky" ortroom. Strains of the Jerusalem University Theme Song heralded the staff's arrival, presence, and departure. Memoirs of the Editors, Trudie Gardner and Lizette Boone, will certainly record the cramped quarters in Mr. Star's Porsche during the trips to the printer's in Charlotte. First semester included the reading of THE AGONY AND THE ECSTASY. It is hard to say which will be remembered more, the agony of reading 750 pages in one week, or the ecstasy of having completed it.

It's a sure thing that the staffers will be remembered by club presidents and committee heads as mendicants for their constant nagging about pictures and copy. When layouts were begun, there seemed to be an immense shortage of rulers, typists, and this little round wheel called a proportion scale. Heads were cut; feet were cut; arms were cut; in fact, most anything was cut from a picture to facilitate its being wedged onto the proper page in the proper space. Some of Travis Skinner's pictures were simply mutilated.

There were days spent under tables and on tables as students played "cat and mouse" games with "Big Daddy". Someone snitched our lunch one day, too—but fat warts are lovable!

Of course there was the day it snowed and the staffers worked in the unheated art room as pencils and fingers were reduced to nubs. The New York trip brought unprecedented excitement. The year ended with the crude artwork of nineteen folks who were so dedicated to Durham High that they took art in order to be a member of the Messenger Staff of 1965.

CLUB

Spirit . . . interest . . . team work . . . pep . . . were the ingredients of the peppiest club of D.H.S. this year. Our young club, started two years ago, has gone far into the field of promoting school spirit.

Much work, mixed with fun and excitement, made our club effective. Decorating the goal posts, making banners and posters, selling season tickets, decorating the basketball hoop, and working to fill up out-of town bus trips were just a few of the many jobs performed by this club. We found that most of the D.H.S. students were most concerned with filling their school with spirit.

But work for school spirit began before school actually opened. Many voluntary students of Durham High helped to support their school by selling season tickets.

Something new this year was a card cheering section for basketball games. 162 students were necessary to make the section a success.

The cheerleaders led a special cheer to which the cards were used. Pep club members worked hard for this section to be used for years to come.

In the spring the Pep Club sponsored a picnic. Everyone was invited, including non-members. There was varied entertainment and the existing excitement assured us that our club had fulfilled its purpose of supporting school spirit.

ANTHOLOGY

I searched for Myself,
And I did not find.
Instead, I saw pieces spread over the landscape:
And, instead, I went about,
Picking them up a piece at a time.

—Mel Smyre

Sound of footsteps halt in his mind inaudible echoes of his own as if he were running away from his mind running a race with the torment of his memory.

The night
so many times had he walked it through but never alone
always with her always until tonight.

Every black detail of silence is permanent in his memory
crying loud now to his mind of hot summers when night and breeze were one and amber sunsets glazed the horizon of tomorrows.

How long ago had he deserted silence time has come to trade loneliness for loneliness of his past and walk black nights of summer alone.

Walk on, and he defines into nihilism
or covers his mind with black memories dreams of a barbed wire heaven and angels hot in hell.

Her face blurs through in never-ending fades and silent laughter wells up from reminiscent pines, cooled in black walk on, and he forgets a memory walk on and dream of lost people running from their mind through black night seance with loneliness.

Walk on and see no sunset slip again live far now dawn to breathe. The pines . . . the sky . . . the face
he lacks in nihilism
no futile deaths
but one.

THE SEVEN DEADLY PLINS

A Child's Guide To 'Macbeth'

By SUSAN HART

Here are three witches. They are not good witches like on television. They are cooking Macbeth's goose. Do you want to help them? Here, you can stir the cauldron for them. By the way, cauldron is a naughty word for kettle.

This is Macbeth. He wants to be king of Scotland. His wife, Lady Macbeth, is going to stop being a lady so she can help him. The nice King Duncan is staying all night at their house. He lives at Fife so the town is referred to as Duncan's Fife. That night Macbeth will murder Duncan, sleep, and his conscience, in that order.

After Macbeth kills Duncan, things start picking up. He kills two servants. No wonder help is hard to get. He pays the Mafia to kill Banquo. Then Banquo breaks up his king party. He kills Macduff's whole family. Macduff is real mad because Macbeth doesn't have any kids, because Lady Macbeth threw theirs around. Macbeth says he gets twenty-four murders to every dagger. Once he even thought he saw one floating around the house, but it was Lady Macbeth's missing letter opener.

Lady Macbeth should be very happy. Her husband is king and she lives in a modern castle with wall to wall tapestries and a kidney-shaped moat. Because she is unhappy, she eats a lot. She gets up at night for a snack. She always washes her hands before eating. But tonight she cannot get them clean, so she says, "Out (naughty word) spot!" Nobody ever told her about Lava, the hand soap.

Nobody likes Macbeth anymore. They call him names like S.O.B. (Silly Old Butcher). Finally Macduff kills him. Now we see Malcolm. He is a lot like Duncan. He has Duncan's courage, Duncan's looks, Duncan's Noble character, and Duncan's Crown.

"My Specialty"

There I was sitting on the bench, the coach saving me for the all-important play which depended on my "Specialty". The score stood at ten to seven. We, the losing team in this National Championship Football game, had the ball on our own forty-five yard-line. There were only four minutes left in this all-important game, with the outcome depending on my "Specialty". We were slowly but surely moving the ball downfield, using our huge two hundred and ten pound fullback as a battering ram. As we cautiously approached their twenty-five yard-line, my heart began pumping faster and faster. "It won't be long now," I thought, "with only a minute and a half left in the game." On the next play the quarterback hit the left halfback with a hard pass, which picked up ten yards and moved the ball to the fifteen yard line with only thirty seconds left in the game.

I knew the moment had come when the coach signalled for a time-out on the field. "Freeman", he yelled, "Get in there and do your stuff!"

As I ran quickly out onto the playing field, that wonderful feeling of victory spread over me, because just the sight of my sparkling water-bucket seemed to renew the strength of the tired boys.

FEATHERS ON THE WIND

We mave like young animals, luring each other, swaying with the maan,
Aspiring far a yellow daffodil here,
A raw, meaty acran there.
We pad down the thorny path, 'raund randam wheel,
Reading words upan the sky, winking at Jahnnny Appleseed.
We call it honorable corruption ta lie far life,
Ta break the bough that pricks the sparrow.
Heaven flaws into the ultramarine sea, and we are sparkling dalphins,
Sans af Parnassus. I think life is the dynasty af nature,
And we are feathers an the wind.

LAST

The thin, wrung hands lie limp beside Truth;
They are raked af blood and rigid in the odious gift of sleep
Where the mind wanders into the eddy af the past
And sees the young Grecian body swing unscathed onto the share.
And what are the senses approaching death,
But that they may bathe once more in the low and glarius ebb-tide,
And converge an that great flash where sea and land electrify man into spirit?
Straining, straining, to touch the pasteled seascape
Until the last desperate mament when breath freezes in the air
And fades somewhere beyond the girth af azure light.

THE SECRET GARDEN

by Linda Cole

Fleeting strains of satin-slipped foot falls
Rustling
Darting through the crackling stillness of
A narrow garden passage.
Love-drenched sorrow, filling
Closing blooms with tears of dew,
Sealing within the delicate blossom
Light of Day
From the heavy pressing dimness.
Crawling columbines cease their upward journey, drooping with mournful stems
To earth.
Spinning spiders flee on silken threads,
The roses shed themselves of beauty on Protest.
Withered petals, dying grasses, furnish the willing lovers with a bed
Neath the willows bend and weep in silence,
The night wind blows a gentle hollow remonstrance.
Softly, a re-echoing tone; the ghost-like melody of a nightingale
Imprisoned in a moonbeam.

COMING STREET

Moon . . .

And the slum suns itself like a drowsy cat.

Summer-drenched but jungle-wary, it stares

From close-hooded eyes, half-yawning, half-snapping.

It stretches,

Reveling in power and lassitude and brawling and knifing and insolence,

Unaware of its ignorance, proud of its contempt.

The grizzled old man on the stoop naps in the past.

Not comprehending the shrill laughter from the street,

As glistening bare feet merge into the asphalt,

Nor understanding the sharper scent of death

Mingled with the fetid odors of cabbage and decay.

And the slum bares its claws,

No more an alley cat but a tiger:

WALTON LS

Only the winds have known this place.
The rolling hulks of metal do not know;
 they do not stop, and they do not care.
The trees wave at passing planes; but they have minds only for their destination.
The grasses wriggle beneath the sardonyx cloud, lispig their message to the world of color.
The dead leaves roll only with the wind,
 bearing no life but not-their-own.
Even I can see these things.
But I am not the wind.
When I walk here,
 The crickets stop.
 The birds sing, but change their notes.
 When a tree shakes, he does it not in laughter,
 but in fear.
For I have a mind for my destination,
 but they for their destiny.

The Significance of The Vegetable-Fruit Factor in Human Development

By Susan Hart

If you had to be a vegetable and a fruit for the rest of your life, which ones would you choose? This vital question is the basis for interpretation of inner motivations. In my survey of nearly fifty opinions, I endeavored to discover the relationships between their choices and their personalities. Were their responses spontaneously motivated, or were they conscious of their selections as a means to "cover-up" or "show-off"? What did each fruit and vegetable symbolize?

The desire to be accepted and well-liked plays an important part in choosing the "new plant life". The most frequently named vegetables and fruits are the most popular. Carrot, tomato, and corn were chosen most. Peach, apple, and grape were chosen next.

Now let us delve into the individual meanings of each choice. Artichokes and pineapples suggest an inner personality that is unknown to friends and difficult to reach. Potatoes suggest an earthy quality. Avocados, pink grapefruit, and pomegranates suggest a desire for adventure and travel. As for passion fruit, it is best left uninterpreted. The following is a list of simple interpretations.

ITEM	MEANING
horse-radish, radish,	difficult to approach
lemon grape, banana cherry, cabbage, lettuce	conformity carrot, celery, corn cucumber, tomato, apple, orange, peach, sweet pea	average, desire to be accepted
beet, nectarine, tangerine, cucumber	fight between two personality forces
pear, apricot bell-pepper	sensitivity
butter-bean, okra, string bean	intense loyalty to living area
popcorn, watermelon	innocence of youth

Now let us discuss a few individual personalities. Example A wants to be an avocado and a nectarine. He desires romantic adventure yet is rational and calculating. Example B wishes to be corn and a grape. He seeks acceptance and is a conformist, having a group desire. These qualities can be logically discovered through the vegetable and fruit interpretations. It's so easy even a gracer can do it.

A basic question remains: Were the answers spontaneous motivations or calculated responses? To a great extent the replies were given with previous knowledge of fundamental symbolism. Even so by choosing them in this manner, basic qualities were still evident in these choices. Spontaneous responses are often the best as they tend to show the individual in an honest and natural light. Either way, the interpretations can be valid, showing deeper understanding through symbolism.

I Was An Unwed Mummy

I've been workin' on the pyramid
All the live-long day.
I've been workin' on the pyramid
Making bricks with clay.
Can't you hear the Pharoah shouting
Be sure to put in a john!
Oh, I've been workin' on the pyramid
I'd rather build the Parthenon.

'Way down upon the old Nile River
Far, far away
That's where someone embalmed my liver,
Where Ra and Isis stay.

Roses are red
Papyrus is bluish
You gotta build pyramids
'Cause you're Jewish.

When a mummy meets a mummy drinkin' scotch and rye
Neither mummy is a nice mummy
'Cause the state of Egypt is dry.
Unless the mummies bought their liquor at the ABC,
Then the mummies are nice mummies
As you can plainly see.

For he's a jolly good Pharoah
For he's a jolly good Pharoah
For he's a jolly good Pharoah
Whom nobody can depose.

ILLNESS

by Larry Freeman

We all have illnesses of all sizes, shapes, and description. Some are large; some are small, and some are nothing at all.

I realize that illness cannot be helped (in most cases), but one factor that can be helped is the way people are forever talking about everyone else's illness or pain at such inopportune times. It seems as if every time I sit down at a friend's dinner table, the subject pops up out of nowhere. I'll start to take a bite of my delicious roast turkey, and Mrs. Barthalamew's operation comes up. Then when I start to eat my bright red and ripe tomatoes, old Miss Stone has a transfusion or a leg cut off. So usually after all this type of talk, I just don't feel too hungry anymore. There seems to be more sickness in the world than ever before, and every little piece of it gets talked about around me. The natives of Africa are all dying of leprosy. The people in Outer Mangalia are all coming down with plague, and of course everyone in the world has the flu. Doctors keep coming up with the all brand-new "cure-all miracle drugs", which do cure the illness, but sometimes have some small side-effects, such as after you have taken a certain amount of this drug your left arm shrivels up, or your right leg falls off, etc.

Some people may enjoy talking about all this gruesome lunacy, and I'm sure others loathe it, but as far as me, the whole thing just makes me ill!

The Best Gift I Ever Received

For a "teenager" to write about and express himself on the subject I am about to write as the "best gift he ever received", and to mean and believe what he writes, might be termed theological, hypocritical, and even uncommon and unique. But, whenever I see and hear about the greatest gift I have ever received, if I don't publicly express it, I certainly on the inside feel that my parents and all the "accessories" that accompany them and their lives is the greatest and most precious gift I have received.

Both of my parents are good, Christian people, which, in my estimation, means more than just enough. As a result of this kind of life for them, my whole life, no matter who or what surrounds me, will be different. I was born into this family of love, kindness, patience, and care. I have been raised to my present age of seventeen in a Christian, wholesome environment. By no means has this "religious stuff" been pushed and ground into my head as Communist ideals are into the minds of Russian young people. At no time have my parents ever forced me to attend church and its functions. From the time I was four months old, I have been in church. It's been the most healthy habit my parents have taught me.

So, my parents first brought me into a sin filled world and then guided me in many right directions, beginning with the church. Through my parents and the church, I have seen and I'm sure I will see many things which others outside such Christian love and understanding cannot see. Right now and in the past, my decisions have greatly been influenced by the teachings of the church and of the sagacity of my parents. My choice of professions, my mate for marriage, my social tactics and behavior will all be influenced by these "gifts".

Being a young person, I am often beset with many temptations to which the average young person would probably succumb. But with the home and Christian morals and ethics which I have learned, I can then practice and put them to use in a tight situation. However, I'll be the first to admit that I'm not a model teenager. In fact, I'm probably a great deal worse than others of "my kind". And to be called a Christian young person, I am at times probably one of the most hypocritical young people to be professing such a faith. I've got just enough world in me to make me uncomfortable in church, and enough church in me to make me uncomfortable in the world. But, you know, the main difference in me and others is that I know when I'm wrong and I know what I can do about it; and if I don't do anything about it, no one pays for it any harder than I.

Through that gift I received, whether I wanted it or not, the parents who love me, care for me, and are interested in me at all times no matter how far I fall into the depths of despair and degradation, will still love me. My life will never be the same, because it is the one gift that I will always love and cherish, and will be of more benefit and use to me than any other gift that I could ever receive.

—David Moore

LIFT UP THINE HEART, VINCENT

Are you happy,
Vincent,
As the cool, black
Earth
Covers you?
Do you still
Remember
The short years past?
Or,
Do you prefer to Forget
Those tortured, terrifying days,
When
Your only salvation lay in insanity?
Can you still remember your
Scarred reflection
In the broken mirror at the "home,"
Your face
Drenched with desire?
Have you forgotten your
Ear,
Wrapped in the blood-soaked scarf,
Or
The girl you gave it to?
Does the memory of your face,
Black
With the coal of the Boriange,
Make you
Remember
There really once was a
God?
Lift
Up thine heart,
Oh, Vincent,
For peace is now yours. Your Sunflowers
Shall live
Forever.

WINTER

Grey, swirling, seething mists,
Sudden gusts of lusty winds,
Sweep the slopes with icy breaths of winter chill.
Within, the heart of winter abides,
Forcing the opiate of sleep throughout the system of

Tragic land of slumber on death
Land within the heart of me.

Up The Street

The street was lined with the monotonous cars, which had that morning been colored in their idiosyncrasy, but now sat helpless to the aging snow that emblanqueted them in skeletal outlines. Up the street their clearly defined lineation faded into a fog of white—thin outlines merged into the horizon. The cars were undergoing without deterrence their premature aging . . . perhaps pondering severally the aging of man, and its tragedy, finding themselves helpless to rebel against the white energy. Snowflakes swirled around their hoods and lights, fluttering madly down by their whitening tires . . . the angels of their wasted frame as they covered the cars with conformity and insensitivity. They cooled a woman's tired face and beat faster and faster around her head, seeking to cloud her eyes with their chill. The woman waded on into the white storm, turning her head from their sting as she went. They continued in their conquest of the ground, still continuing to blind her thoughts and inhibitions with their numbness. They beat faster and faster around her body so that she would stumble in her gait and fall to the frosted ground, leaving herself at their mercy to cover her tired body in their cloak of conquest.

Man strikes his finest pose
When he reaches out
To grasp ideas drifting
Above him,
To seize from the sky
A still higher level of understanding,
And reaches farthest not with
A language of words, nor
Of a brush, a chisle,
But with one of music.

Man rests with greatest peace
When he lays a bridge
Between himself and nature,
When he imitates her summer winds
With a soft chord,
As he seizes a piece of the sun
With the burst of trumpets,
And a part of the moon with a horn.
Man has achieved the final
Harmony when he can
Claim a common language
Between himself and
Those who use words
Unlike his, strokes of the brush
Alien to him.
He finds nature not
Between the covers of a book,
He meets his fellow man
Not on the shell of the earth.
Man lies spread far too
Distant there.
But rather they converge
At its core,
When they reach out with
The same arm and grasp the world
With the hand of music.

D.H.S. MONOPOLY CLUB
REACHES GREAT
NEW HEIGHTS—
NUMBER 1

In the D.H.S. cafeteria yesterday afternoon at 4:00 P.M. the members of the Monopoly Club met to have a play off between teams of red and white. Each team had one senior, one junior, and one sophomore participating.

The goal of each team was to get Park Place before the other. One member of the red team stated this would be an easy task since he had been fighting for a parking place for three years each morning. The game turned out to be a product of the economic classes considering the amount of money spent.

The game and money were flying when a sophomore of the red team made an unwise move. He bought Mediterranean Avenue for sixty dollars. The rent is only six. The white team, however, made up for this mistake when their senior only got back ten dollars change from a buy of one-hundred-eighty dollars after handing the banker a five-hundred dollar bill. The math teachers asked that it be announced that a class will be held in the science building on elementary arithmetic.

A member of the white team was arranged to be ridden out of town on a rail when he sold a railroad to the other team for half price. The rent doubles with each R.R. held.

The block marked "free parking" was not used because some of the players became bitter when they couldn't have a little metal sports car too. The player with the car was later thrown in jail by the majority for reckless driving.

There was a great disagreement with the referee and it seemed as though a riot would start. Then the referee brought out his grade book and the cafeteria became strangely quiet.

New York Avenue, owned by the white team, had to be taken out of the game when the many houses and hotels crowded together were reduced to a slum area. A member of the red team accidentally dropped a tray on it. No objection was made because the white team are all Southerners.

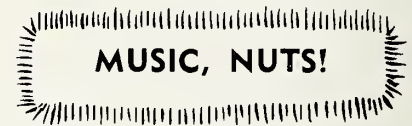

Now these teams are ready to face their season with gritted teeth. Last year we played ten and lost ten, a fairly even record. We hope to do as well this year. We have done worse!

Yea D.H.S.—Keep fighting—and spending.

BLOATED FLOATERS WIN

Congratulations to Durham High's championship swimming team! Last week they won the state 4-A title with great ease. The co-captains were asked what contributed most to their fabulously successful season, and both agreed that the Olympic-size pool at D.H.S. was the greatest single contribution. Water Logged, the star Bullfrog, attributed his speed and skill to long hours of practice in our fine pool. Would this great honor have been bestowed on our school if the pool had been closed according to plan last year?

MUSIC, NUTS!

Congratulations to the forty-one students at Durham High who placed first in the state triangle and tambourine championship - conference. They are the following: Cyril Hack, Percy Mildew, Ursula Froth, Sybil Kumquat, Zelda Finklestein, Hilda Smoot, Harold Flimbolt, Clyde Snavely, Kenneth Slime, Darlene Dryppe, Eunice Flagella, Melvin Thidwicke, Timothy Ipswitch, Orville Crumm, Bernard Bilge, Clarabelle Lu Hotchkiss, Tracy Hart, Clarence Sappe, Seymour Drudge, Clare Voyant, Prisilla Pumice, Jerome Scumm, Bertha Cadaver, Gertrude Glutch, Isadore Insipid, Guglielmo Umberti, Ivan Truffle, Horace Vestibule, Beatrice Isman, Nacaline Nigby, Jigita Cole, Fredrika Flinch, Virgil Stipend, Cedric Lockjaw, Rupert Tringle, Wilhelmina Hazzinfeffer, Theodore Knumbskull, Modene Gunch, Fortissima Splot, and Maxmaduke Clunke.

Our newest singing group, The Singing Sadists, made their debut at the Public Library, last week. They plan to sing for the Durham Wrecking Crew next Saturday.

Don't forget the hootenanny sponsored by Mr. Toan's Chemistry II class to be held in the teacher's cafeteria. We expect a big turnout! See you there!

FROM MY AUNT

DEAREST SELMA,

I just received your dear little note. I'm going to send you my dear little note by Sydney, my new homing vulture. He really comes in handy around the house when guests drap in, if you know what I mean. The weather has been quite sunny and warm here so I haven't been able to take my Brownie Troop to the cemetery for a picnic. I hope the weather is much better in Durham.

My dear friend Hysteria told me about the rats and cockroaches in your cafeteria. My, that sounds like the DELICIOUS food we used to get at Bela Lugosi Memorial High School when I was your age! We had lady fingers (with real fingers), blood sausage, and cream of nightshade soup. Those were the good old days when I had my perfect 36" figure—12", 12", 12".

Your Student Council has certainly been doing a WONDERFUL job this year. I've heard so much about their projects. That reminds me of the student organization we had at our school. They called it the Inquisition. You just can't imagine how beautifully the students behaved after the Inquisition enforced a few necessary rules. Of course we had some of the same problems you have nowadays. There were a lot of high school drop-outs. (It got pretty messy when they dropped out the fifth floor, too!) Teachers gave a lot of homework then, too. There was once an epidemic and most of the teachers were forced to leave school. After the voo-doo dolls were confiscated everything went back to sub-normal. I guess things don't change very much, do they?

I know some of the students are quite careless about keeping Durham High neat, but did they really find a mummy during one of those locker clean-outs? I shouldn't criticize you students, though, after all you're very INGENIOUS. Remember the time Mr. Toan's Chemistry II class conducted an experiment on suspended animation? Now you know why that assembly period seemed extra long and when you got home it was Sunday. I'm not sure what Mrs. Anderson's Biology II classes built, but his initials are F.N.S.M. (Frankenstein Monster.) All in all, you have been making definite strides in education at Durham High School, learning your three R's—REALIZATION, ROTE, and

I know at Durham High School everyone takes pride in their extra-curricular activities like sports and theatrical productions. I can remember all the thrilling games we had at school. There was a real fun game called "Squash, Crunch, and Splat" and of course the ever popular "Barrack Room Emperors", a game for intellectuals. We produced some really BEAUTIFUL plays like Nelly Put Your Head Back On, He's Coming Home Tonight and Godzilla Meets Bernard Barach in Dusseldorf. Your own little auntie played the head witch in South Paranaia. I also won the "What-has-Madame-Defarge-got-that-I-haven't-got" contest.

Well I must close now, dear. The neighbors are banging on the walls to get out and I'm frying some fudge.

Loathingly,
Aunt Despair

Dear Class of 1965:

Congratulations! You have completed one of the most important milestones in your career. The attitudes, knowledge, and physical growth developed over the past twelve years will serve you well as you continue toward greater rewards. Having you as a part of our family these three years has been a source of true pleasure. While I am certain you have experienced every emotion known to man, I trust that joy and happiness have been predominant.

You have had the good fortune of being exposed to the most outstanding staff of teachers assembled anywhere. The truth of this is generally not recognized by students until after graduation. As the years go by you will come to appreciate more and more the contribution these dedicated people have made to your lives.

In a short time you will be in positions of political, business, and civic leadership. When this happens I hope you will remember your school years and that you will use your influence to attract and hold for your children teachers equally as competent as those who taught you.

I join the entire faculty of Durham High School in wishing you every possible success.

Respectfully yours,
Dan F. Cagle
